Jon D. Pesansky

Business Technology Director

Corning® Gorilla® Glass, Corning Specialty Materials

Jon Pesansky is currently the business technology director in the Specialty Materials division development group. In this role, he is responsible for technology delivery and organization for Corning® Gorilla® Glass.

Pesansky's emphasis within the organization is on innovating new product and process technologies for Corning Gorilla Glass. His team focuses on all technologies from glass design and processing to product reliability, ion exchange, finishing, as well as value proposition development for Gorilla Glass.

Pesansky joined Corning in 1996, working in the telecommunications sector and has many positions throughout Corning's businesses. In 2009, Jon moved to Corning Specialty Materials, where he developed the product performance and reliability organization for Corning Gorilla Glass.

Pesansky received a bachelor's degree in physics from Hartwick College.
